

Emergency Navigation

If you are a first responder, saving lives, an off the shelf navigation system will not suffice.

You need to reach an emergency scene as fast as possible, route around hazards, leverage your right to navigate one way lanes, have awareness of other first responders, and receive data from a variety of sources straight to your navigation system.

If you are a command center operator, you need the ability to track, communicate with and monitor the incident, set up sensitive zones, and receive real time input from diverse sources to optimize the incident response.

Comtech's Emergency Navigation Solutions enhance response time and effectiveness with tailored navigation and communication.
